Dear Educator,

Opiikapawin Services is coordinating an excellent opportunity for your students to learn about energy in a 1-day workshop through the "Plugged Into A Brighter Future" program. As you may be aware, Wataynikaneyap Power is building an 1800-kilometer transmission line to link 17 First Nations to the provincial electricity grid. Opiikapawin Services supports the project by working to ensure our First Nations participate in employment, business and other opportunities associated with the transmission line project.

Opiikapawin Services, in partnership with Natural Resources Canada (NRCAN), Independent Electricity System Operators (IESO), and Relay Education, is offering First Nations the opportunity to host an exciting, informative and fun, 1-day workshop all about energy. The energy workshops in your community will include:

- Learning about Wataynikaneyap Power Transmission Project, and the benefits of ownership for your community
- Renewable energy
- Careers in the energy sector
- Energy safety
- Energy conservation
- Hands on activities for youth

Students from ages nine to fourteen will have the opportunity to experience unique hands-on activities while learning about renewable energy. One of those activities will be building and racing their own solar powered model car or making wind turbines.

We hope your community will take this opportunity expand your youths' knowledge about energy, and their potential to have careers in the energy sector. We look forward to scheduling a workshop with your community.
