Lake St. Joseph Commercial Fishing

is a family business from Slate Falls, Ontario that supplies fish to the Wataynikaneyap project's Slate Falls and Sioux Lookout YATAW camps. Their main base camp for fishing is at Lake St. Joseph, where they have a stunning view.

It was shared that the Late Sam Carpenter once held the license, however that responsibility is now designated to Irene Shakakeesic, with other numerous designates within the family.

This includes Miriam Cook (bottom left), as well as the children within the family (right). Miriam shared that it is important to them that the children are involved in the business and that they learn how things work, as they are an important part of our future.
